Modern international conventions and major conferences can only be staged when a location is easily accessible to all participants, no matter where they are in the world. A city must have a wide range of direct flight connections, or be reachable with one intermediate landing at the very most. The Austrian Airlines Group is the perfect partner for the Austrian conference and incentive industry and its locations across the country, because it provides the strongest network of routes into and out of Austria. In the scheduled segment, Austrian currently serves 130 destinations worldwide, making not merely its Vienna hub but also the regional airports in Graz, Innsbruck, Klagenfurt, Linz and Salzburg the perfect access points. The Vorarlberg region is served by Altenrhein Airport on the Austrian-Swiss border, to which the Austrian Airlines Group enjoys exclusive scheduled access.

For international congresses and conferences Austrian Airlines can offer its support to the organizers, provided certain minimum requirements are met. For events with at least 100 international delegates the Austrian Airlines "Congress Fare" discount can be offered and if there are more than 400 international delegates expected, in addition a barter agreement can be provided to be used for preparation-flights or flights for invited speakers. In order to gain these benefits, the organizer has to announce the Austrian Airlines Group as "Official Carrier" for his event.

Austrian's integration into the global route network of the Star Alliance is also paying huge dividends: Austrian Airlines is an active part of the "Star Alliance ConventionsPlus" product, designed to open up the world of Star Alliance to conference organizers and participants through a single contact partner. From organizer support and incentive right through to the interlinable convention fare discount, the partner airlines in the Star Alliance have now integrated all the essential elements connected with air transport services in the conference sector.
